

Accident Avoidance Training

The US Army Transportation School has developed an Internet course to help teach wheeled vehicle accident avoidance.

The 14-module course covers everything from doing vehicle inspections to coping with aggressive drivers.

Two versions are offered: a video version for students with Pentium CPUs and sound cards, and a text version for others.

Students have 30 days after enrollment to complete the on-line course. The school maintains a student completion roster and provides by-name confirmation to driver training offices.
