Don't Turn In Test Sets

Aircraft mechanics and supply types, don't turn in your B16-managed avionics test equipment to the Defense Reutilization and Marketing Office (DRMO) before checking with the item manager.

The Army is critically short of test sets, and when DRMO gets them, the shortage gets worse.

Many of the test sets have repair programs and can be repaired and put back into service right away. Here's a sampling of test sets that are in short supply and the list of item managers to call:
