

HEMTTs...

COOL IT ON GEAR STOWAGE

In order to cool your HEMTT's engine, the radiator needs cool air. That's not gonna happen if you pile your gear on top of the cab.

Camo nets, backpacks, duffle bags and other gear tied down on top of the cab will block the air flow channel that funnels air to the radiator. No air, no cooling. And soon, no engine.

Sure, space is tight. But you're better off finding somewhere else to put that gear. It beats thumbing a ride when the engine overheats.
