

Dear Half-Mast,
Our Sentinels have developed shiny spots where the paint has worn off. The shiny spots make it easier for the enemy to spot us at night. But we can't figure out where to go for info on painting our Sentinels. Can you help?
SGT J.H.

Dear Sergeant J.H.,
You bet. You can touch up shiny spots on your Sentinel just like you would on your Army trucks or tanks. Follow the instructions in TM 43-0139, Painting Instructions for Army Materiel. Also see the special section on CARC in PS 598. Jobs bigger than touching up bare spots should be done by your local paint shop.
