

DON'T GO INSIDE!

Busting into the sealed case of a less than four-year-old PP-2953D/U power supply, NSN 6130-01-522-3494, is verboten! (That means a really bad idea!)

Power supplies less than four years old are still under warranty. But the warranty is null and void (no good, no more) if you break into the case!

If you're having a problem with the power supply, ship it back to the manufacturer, Custom Manufacturing & Engineering (CME) in St. Petersburg, FL. You can call them at 1-866-868-2385.

There's a label on the power supply that tells you the month and year the warranty expires (four years from issue).

If you have general questions about the power supply, even the older original A, B or C models, call C-E LCMC's @us.army.mil at DSN 987-4767 or (732) 427-4767. Or email him:
