

BURP THE AMMO BOXES?

Plastic food containers have one big advantage over your Bradley's AP and HE ammo ready boxes: You can burp their covers to make sure they're on tight.

Not so with the ammo boxes. It's up to you to visually make sure they're on good and tight.

If the lids aren't on just right, they'll come loose when the turret is traversed. Not only will the covers be crushed, but they can snag and rip loose cables and connectors.

It's an easy mistake to make, especially when you're in a hurry. So always make sure the rounded edges of the cover fit over the outside edges on both sides of the box before you close and latch it. That keeps the cover from popping open during operation.

