

We also keep a record in the database of when tools were calibrated so that we can easily tell when a particular tool is due a trip to TMDE.

Even our bench stock is bar coded, which helps us keep track of what items need to be replenished.

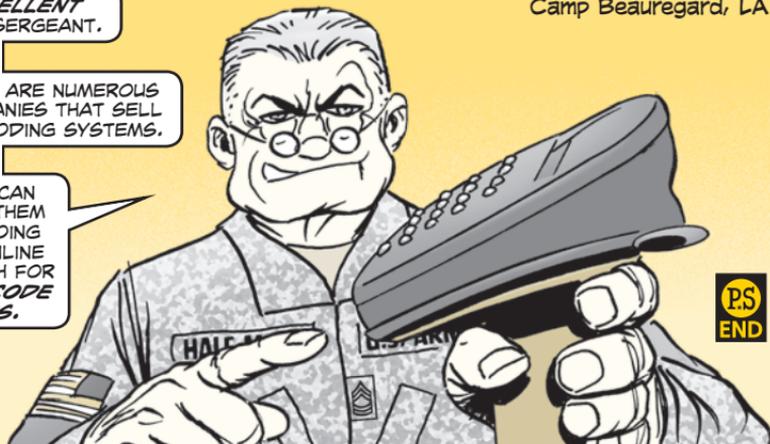

We dedicate one computer just for the bar code info and we don't hook it up to the Internet to safeguard against viruses. And, of course, we weekly back up the information to an external drive in case the computer crashes.
